

Delegation Name: Haiti

Ambassador Name: Zeynep Akgiray

Dear delegates, Student Officers and Advisors, and the Executive Committee of the Turkish International Model United Nations,

I would like to start my speech by saying it is a great honor to serve as the ambassador of the delegation of Haiti in TIMUN 2024.

As we find ourselves in the midst of numerous technological revolutions, it is clear that traditional industries are facing profound changes. From workspaces to homes these novelties have affected our view of labor. The rapid rise of digital labor and related technologies has the potential to render irrelevant current regulations since they are often ill-suited to address the flexibility and unpredictability of digital work. Thus it is crucial that new rules and regulations that will adequately address these new technologies are put in place.

In an era where technology is increasingly permeating our lives every day it is of utmost importance to regulate how we use technology and how it will affect our lives, regarding our theme, “The Uncertain Future of Traditional Industries: Labor in the Digital Economy.”

As Haiti our aim is to address and resolve global problems such as the threat of biological weapons, hunger and malnutrition in Latin America and the Caribbean, environmental violence, economic inequality, and worker poverty, all agenda items we will be debating upon in the next four days.

As a country affected by some of these issues, we, as Haiti, are hoping to work with fellow member states to resolve these global issues in a manner that will be globally beneficial.

As the delegation of Haiti, we hope to achieve this objective throughout this conference, and we wish all delegates a productive and fruitful debate.
